Interest Rate. Fees & Charges

EXPAND ALL

What is the RBI Policy Repo Rate?

It is the interest rate published by RBI at which it lends money to banks.

What is ICICI Bank's external benchmark rate?

All new floating rate Home Loans are linked to the RBI Repo Rate.

What does reset of floating rate mean?

As per Master Direction - RBI (Interest Rate on Advances) Directions, 2016, floating rate loan means a loan on which interest rate does not remain fixed during the tenure of the loan. Hence, in case of a floating interest rate loan, the benchmark rate of the loan gets revised on a pre-defined frequency. Floating rates are revised every three months as per RBI guidelines.

What will be the frequency of benchmark reset for floating rate Home/ Mortgage Loans?

As per Master Direction - RBI (Interest Rate on Advances) Directions, 2016, the interest rate under external benchmark shall be reset at least once in months. Thus, the Repo Rate component of the Interest Rate will be reset on the first day of the third subsequent month from the month in which the Facility is first disbursed (irrespective of the date of disbursement) and every three months thereafter, as a sum of Repo Rate + "Spread", plus applicable statutory levy, if any. The applicable Repo Rate shall be the rate prevailing one business day preceding the reset date.

Illustration: For first disbursements made in the month of October 2019, the first reset date will be Jan 01, 2020 the first reset date will be 01 January 2020, and thereafter on Apr 01, 2020, and so on.

What will be the frequency of change in spread?

As per Master Direction - RBI (Interest Rate on Advances) Directions, 2016, the spread of the facility may undergo change when borrower's credit assessment undergoes a substantial change, as agreed upon in the loan contract or the Bank could alter the spread once in three years. Thus, in case of any change in spread of the facility, the effective rate of interest may change.

How will the benchmark reset impact the current Rate of Interest (ROI) in case the Repo rate increases or decreases?

On the reset date, if the applicable Repo rate has increased, the effective ROI of the loan account will increase which in turn will impact the EMI/tenure of the loan. In case of decrease in Repo Rate, the ROI will decrease which in turn will impact the tenure of the loan.

Illustration: Consider a scenario where first disbursement of the loan is done on Oct 15, 2019, under RBI Repo linked benchmark rate, with the RBI Repo Rate being 5.15% per annum (as on Oct 14, 2019) with a spread/margin of 400 basis points (bps). In such a case the effective rate would be 9.15% per annum.

In the above scenario, the effective rate of 9.15% per annum would remain constant till the next reset date, i.e. Jan 01, 2020. On Jan 01, 2020, the loans would be reset with the applicable RBI Repo rate as on Dec 31, 2019.

What is the difference between fixed and floating interest rates?

Fixed interest rates remain unchanged throughout the agreed period, providing payment predictability. In contrast, floating rates vary based on market benchmarks, causing EMIs to fluctuate accordingly, which may result in lower payments if rates decrease.

How does the repo rate affect my home loan EMI?

Floating rates are linked to the RBI Repo Rate. Repo Rate change leads to an adjustment in benchmark-linked interest rates, resulting in a potential change to loan EMI or Tenure.

Will ICICI Bank discontinue the previous benchmark rates i.e. I-Base/FRR/PLR/MCLR?

For all new floating rate Home/Mortgage Loans sanctioned from Oct 01, 2019, the Bank will only give loans linked to Repo Rate. However, the existing loans will continue the respective PLR/FRR/I-Base/MCLR till its repayment.

Will the existing loans booked under PLR/FRR/I-Base/MCLR get automatically reset under Repo linked benchmark rate?

No, the existing loans will continue under the existing benchmark rate.

Will the existing customers linked to FRR//PLR/I-Base/MCLR based benchmark rate be allowed to convert to Repo based pricing?

Yes, all existing customers have an option to switch from the existing system of FRR/PLR/I-Base/MCLR (FRR/PLR/I-Base/MCLR +/- spread) to the new system of Repo linked rate (Repo + spread) at prevailing rate applicable for new loan with the same category of customers.

Illustration: If an existing customer with a loan amount of Rs 2.5 million at 9.10% interest rate (I-MCLR-1Y (8.55%) + 0.55%) and if the customer opts to switch-over to Repo linked rate, then the applicable interest rate will be 8.90% per annum since the applicable ROI for new loan with the same category of customer is Repo rate (5.15%) + 3.50%.

Will the existing customers link to FRR//PLR/I-Base/MCLR need to pay switch/conversion fee to convert the loan to Repo linked pricing?

Yes, customers will have to pay Switch/conversion fee. For details, the customer will be required to visit the nearest Asset Servicing Branch.

What is the process for changing from an existing benchmark rate of FRR/PLR/I-Base/MCLR to Repo linked benchmark rate?

For changing from existing benchmark rate of FRR/PLR/I-Base/MCLR to Repo based benchmark rate, the customer will be required to visit the nearest Bank Asset Servicing Branch and submit the conversion request letter

EXPAND ALL

What is a Home Loan EMI Calculator?

A Home Loan EMI Calculator available on the ICICI Bank website helps you estimate your monthly EMI based on loan amount, interest rate, and tenure.

How can I calculate EMI for my home loan manually?

You can use the formula above or a spreadsheet (Excel/Google Sheets).

You can calculate EMI using the formula:

$$EMI = [P \times R \times (1+R)^n] / [(1+R)^n - 1]$$

where P = loan amount, R = monthly interest rate, and n = number of months.

For example, a ₹40 lakh loan at 8% for 20 years gives an EMI of about ₹33,458 per month.

How does a prepayment or part-payment calculator help?

A prepayment calculator shows how much interest you can save by paying a part of your loan early.

Example: Paying ₹2 lakhs extra after 3 years can reduce total interest by over ₹3–4 lakhs and shorten the tenure by 1–2 years.

What is a home loan balance transfer calculator?

A balance transfer calculator helps you compare your existing home loan with a new lender offer. You enter your current balance, interest rate, and remaining tenure, and the tool shows how much interest

How can I calculate my home loan EMI online?

Go to a Home Loan EMI Calculator, enter your loan amount, interest rate, tenure and you'll instantly get:

EMI amount

Total interest payable

Total repayment amount

Amortization chart (principal vs interest).

Can I check my home loan eligibility using an online tool?

Yes - A Home Loan Eligibility Calculator estimates how much loan you can get based on your income, age, expenses, and existing EMIs.

For example, a person earning ₹60,000 per month with minimal liabilities can be eligible for around ₹30–35 lakhs, depending on the lender and credit score.

How can I find out how much interest I'll pay during the loan tenure?

Use a Home Loan EMI Calculator and select "View Amortization Schedule."

It shows a month-wise breakdown of principal and interest payments, along with total interest payable over the loan period.

How do I know which home loan plan is better-longer tenure or lower rate?

Use a comparison calculator to test both options. A lower rate reduces total interest cost, while a longer tenure gives smaller EMIs but higher total interest.
